

ABSTRACT

A price associated with a menu item is automatically determined based at least partly on revenue management information. A request for a menu is received and a menu,
5 including the automatically determined price, is generated in response to the request.